HAPPY HOUR ROCKOLOGY

BullsEye Bar

Black Angus Steakhouse, 9505 Bridgeport Way S.W., Lakewood, 253.582.6900

HAPPY OBSERVATION: Tested 6 p.m. Tuesday. The happy hour is 4-7 p.m. Monday-Friday.

SOCIAL SYNTHESIS: The BullsEye attracts one of Lakewood's more diverse male crowds: cops, soldiers, Gravelly Lake dwellers, hockey fans, dentists, truck drivers, insurance agents, councilmembers ranging from college to retirement. It sports friendly bartenders, good food, big drinks — all the things one needs to feel safe against the potentially weird Lakewood outside.

SUSTENANCE: Full-size appetizers such as buffalo chicken tenders, crispy fried zucchini, steak nachos, prawn cocktail, steak quesadilla, loaded shoestring fries for $3-$5. It's an excellent value.

LIBATIONS: $3 beers, wells and house wines; $4 goldstrike margarita, classic martini; $5 pineapple jalapeño chelada, BullsEye chelada; $3-$5 wine pours. KILLER COMPOUND: A large plate of grilled steak, crispy bacon and tomato quesadilla loaded with cheddar and jack cheeses and drizzled with barbecue sauce paired with a Smirnoff martini up with two olives for less than $10. Nice! Oh, Black Angus's famous warm, sweet molasses bread hits the table before your appetizers.

WARNING LABEL: Careful not to bottom out your lowrider pulling off of Bridgeport Way. The staff is ultra-friendly.

ROCKOLOGY: Gone are the days when a Black Angus Lounge was filled with men who shaved their entire body (yes, even there) and used more skin-care products than Tyra Banks and Janice Dickenson combined. Less than two weeks old, this new lounge is for ballcap-wearing, generic-lotion-using real men who want their walls rustic, their sports loud on 11 TVs and their food and drinks dirt cheap during happy hour. Currently, the games are consuming the speakers.
